

CRS Newsletter March 24, 2020

Dear Members and Fellows of the CRS, dear subscribers of the CRS mailing list

With this newsletter we provide information and activities related to reproducibility and scientific integrity. You will also find information about activities conducted by the CRS. For future newsletters, please let us know of any information that is worthwhile spreading.

Content

1. CRS continues to function remotely
 2. First remote ReproducibiliTea on Thursday
 3. Second piece of Reproducibility Notes published in Significance
 4. Good Research Practice Course postponed to June
-
1. CRS staff has transferred to remote working with the rest of the UZH staff. We are still adapting to the situation in teaching, research and daily habits. Contacts with the wider CRS community have always been more remote than personal and this newsletter is one expression of this circumstance. With this first edition created in the new working situation we would like to tell you, that we are still here, trying to follow the same mission. Let us know if you have information related to reproducibility and good research practice that you would like to announce through this medium. Certainly there will be new challenges for reproducibility and robustness of research during and after the current crisis situation.
 2. First remote ReproducibiliTea this Thursday: March 26, 16:00-17:00 with Filip Melinscak on Automating Sciences: Philosophical and Social Dimensions by R. King et al. Find information on how to join the ReproTeas on our website.
 3. Leo Held and Simon Schwab published their second piece of the Reproducibility Notes series in the Significance Magazine: "Different worlds: confirmatory versus exploratory research"
<https://rss.onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/pdf/10.1111/1740-9713.01369>
 4. Both Good Research Practice (GRP) courses, GRP I and the advanced GRP II, have been postponed due to the COVID-19 preventive measures. The new dates are June 5 and June 19, 2020. Please check back on our website or directly with us for further developments.